FAMILY OF

NATHANIEL AND MARY ANN (HOPKINS) MORISON.

27-674-12
Nathaniel Morison, b. in Peterborough, N. H. October 9, 1779, d. at Natchez, Miss. Sept. 11, 1819, m. Sept. 13, 1804, Mary Ann Hopkins, b. in Windham, N. H. Sept. 8, 1779, d. at Medina, Mich. Aug. 28, 1848.

Nathaniel Morison was the son of Deacon Robert and Elizabeth (Holmes) Morison. His paternal grand-parents were Captain Thomas Morison, son of John and grand-son of Samuel Morison, eight of whose children, born in the north of Ireland, came to this country in 1718, and settled at Londonderry, N. H.; and Mary Smith, daughter of Robert and Elizabeth (Smith) Smith, who was born in Ireland, came over in 1736, and settled at Lunenburg, Mass. His maternal grand-parents were Nathaniel Holmes and Elizabeth Moore, daughter of Deacon John Moore, all of Londonderry, N. H.

Mary Ann (Hopkins) Morison was the daughter of John Hopkins and Isabella Reid. Her paternal grand-parents were John Hopkins and Elizabeth Dinsmore, daughter of John Dinsmore. Her maternal grand-parents were Matthew Reid and Mary Ann Holmes. Her ancestors were among the early settlers of Londonderry, the homestead of her family becoming a part of Windham, when it was set off from Londonderry in 1742, and lying along the boundary between the two towns. Both Nathaniel Morison and Mary Ann Hopkins were of pure Scotch-Irish descent, their immediate ancestors always using the Scotch dialect.
